Research Questions

From the hypotheses above, the research study questions at play include:

1

What is the nature of relationship between Patient Care and Patient Satisfaction?

2

Is there any variation in patient care services rendered by Clinics and Hospital?

3

Which countries' patients are more satisfied?

Research objectives

The proposed research study aims to explore the relationship of socio-demographic factors on patient satisfaction with primary care. In this regard, the following objectives are derived:

01

To compare the demographic factors that can affect patient satisfaction.

02

To identify the factors related to primary care.

03

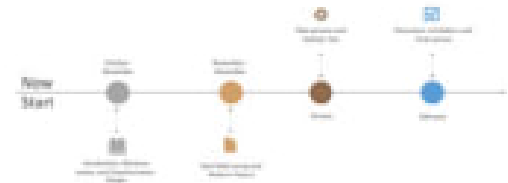

To test the impact of socio-demographic factors on patient satisfaction with primary care.

Introduction

Primary care is considered the most significant and effective of health-care delivery by the patient in its existence. It is accompanied by the enhancement of healthcare access, quality, and efficiency while reducing costs.

Thesis Timeline

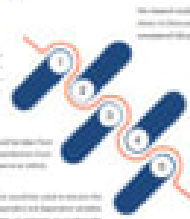

Methodology

The proposed research study would use the quantitative methodology. The quantitative methodology is characterized by the use of numerical data and statistical analysis to test hypotheses and draw conclusions.

The socio-demographic variables would be the independent variables in this study. The dependent variable would be patient satisfaction.

Multiple regression analysis would be used to examine the relationship between the independent and dependent variables. To enhance the understanding of the research, secondary data sources such as journals, articles, and books would be reviewed.

The research study would utilize a quantitative approach to explore the relationship between Patient Care and Patient Satisfaction. The study would use a cross-sectional design to collect data on the relationship between Patient Care and Patient Satisfaction.

Multiple regression analysis would be used to examine the relationship between the independent and dependent variables. To enhance the understanding of the research, secondary data sources such as journals, articles, and books would be reviewed.

Conclusion

The proposed study would explore the impact of socio-demographic factors on patient satisfaction with primary care. Specifically, the study's novelty lies in exploring Clinics and Hospital's relationship. Hence, the proposed study would explore and contribute to the literature and practice that either socio-demographic factors are causing the lack of efficiency in primary care, leading to a patient dissatisfaction in Clinics, or there are not related to the context.
